Drinkard Moves to Production Manager at Mangiante

Memphis, Tenn., Dec. 15, 2008 – Memphis-based Mangiante Photography announced today Anna Beth Drinkard has been promoted from production coordinator to production manager.

Drinkard will continue to be responsible for managing the production of products and services, helping manage office databases and assisting with production, sales, customer service, data entry and on-site support at events. After living in the Dominican Republic with her family for 10 years, she took an interest in photography upon her return to the United States. Drinkard joined Mangiante Photography in 2007 as an office assistant and then moved to production in 2008. She will oversee the department in her new role.

“Having worked with Anna Beth since 2007, I’m confident in her ability to manage Mangiante’s production department,” said Gene Mangiante, president. “At Mangiante, we are committed to providing our customers with quality products and excellent customer service – Anna Beth will help us do just that.”

Mangiante Photography, LLC, is a full-service photography company based in Memphis, Tenn., specializing in portrait, school, sports and special event photography. The company was founded in 2001 by Memphis native Gene Mangiante offering fast turnaround service through its Internet-based proofing and ordering process. In 2004, Mangiante Photography acquired Taylor PhotoWorks, based in Oxford, Miss., followed by the acquisition of Flash Foto in Gainesville, Fla., in 2006. Mangiante Photography employs more than 25 people across Tennessee, Mississippi, Florida and Kentucky. For more information, visit www.mangiantephot.com.
